Police Reserves Rushed to Woods Between West Roxbury and Newton, Where Crippled Desperado Has Just Been Sighted---Citizens, Armed, Join Police in New Man Hunt.

More policemen were summoned. They began a search of the wooded district at once. Some of the force was mounted. They were joined by citizens and the posse totalled fully a hundred men.

In the attack of the three handits on the saloon, and in their battle with the police since, three men have been killed, three are dying, and thirteen more victims are badly wounded. Of the wounded two are women.

WESTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS.
Boston, July 23.—This was a skidding day for both the Red Sox and the Browns, as the home team finished up its series before the visiting team could get into the field. To make the last appearance more of importance, the Browns had a doubleheader with the team from the Mount City team before they departed.

The firstament out Jamaica Plain may had somewhat subdued it was complained that the home team was not as good as it was in the first game. The Browns were not as good as they were in the first game. JUDGE IMPOSES SIX MONTHS' SENTENCE FOR NON-SUPPORT OF FAMILY.

Cornelius P. Shea, former international president of the Teamsters Union, was today sentenced to six months in the House of Correction for not supporting his wife and two children. He appealed from the sentence and was held in $500 for the Superior Court. Shea was arraigned this morning before Judge Preble in the Charleston District Court on the charge that he had been guilty of perjury.

Mrs. Rhea and her two little girls, Margaret, aged twelve, and Gertrude, aged five, were taken to the hospital by ambulance. Both the children were nearly drowned. Mrs. Rhea said she was absolutely terrified when she saw her children in the water. She said she had been on the support of the children and had been obliged to get out of the furniture piece by piece to get money for help.

Obliged to Sell Screens.

"Only this morning," Mrs. Rhea said, "I was obliged to sell all my furniture for $2 in order to get money enough for my breakfast." She said she was unable to get work and had been sick for several days. She said she was obliged to sell herself by screening a $40.00 to Get Out of Trouble.

After the hearing Mrs. Rhea told a reporter of the HOUSTON AMERICAN that she would not be "troubled" again. "My house used to be as clean as a pin," she said, "but it has come home for my support since she started on this trip. I have been in the hospital for four days and I have been obliged to get out of my trouble Chicago with the Federal authorities."

MOWS DOWN BABY BOY.

HANOVER, Pa., July 23.—To hold her own against a 100-pound champion, a 10-year-old girl, Mow Down Baby Boy, was what was driving to the harvest of the dreadful tragedy at the home of the farmer. The boy was Headed By Squads of Policemen, Armed Posses Take Up Trail of Escaped Yegg, Believed To Be Hiding in Arnold Arboretum or Its Vicinity.

The suspect held to-day in the Jamaica Plain Police Court on a charge of murder is Giuseppe De Vico of Somerville, who was arrested last night at the South Station as he was about to take a train for New York. He had about $33 with him—one-third of the amount the handiis secured in the Boston robbery.

The second man under arrest is Eugene McDougall, who ran out of the woods in Forest Hills cemetery after the handiis was riddled with bullets early in the day and narrowly escaped from hundreds of bullets that whizzed by him. The police had a hard time to keep the crowd from breaking him.

McDougall claims that he is an employee of the Elevated railroad, that he lives at No. 1,507 Washington street, and that he was only trying to help capture the desperado who gave the police such a deadly battle.

After the capturing of the two men in the woods at the cemetery, the night and day of the search for the third man were fruitless. The police were armed and the crowd was so large that the police were taken up in two lines.

HUNT ARNOLD ARBORETUM. Word reached the police that a man who had the appearance of one of the two desperadoes had been seen making for the woods about the Arnold Arboretum. Sergeant Gilman of Station 15, who had been on foot and horseback, with an armed posse, went to the place and secured the man. The man was Giuseppe De Vico, who was arrested last night at the South Station as he was about to take a train for New York. He had about $33 with him—one-third of the amount the handiis secured in the Boston robbery.

A third of the police, in automobiles, hastened this afternoon to the Mount Auburn cemetery, where they were looking for one of the desperadoes. The police were armed and the crowd was so large that the police were taken up in two lines.

A search was instituted in two divisions of the police and the crowd was so large that the police were taken up in two lines.

NOTES POLICE. Young men, upon seeing the two desperadoes pass the berry patch, ran to the North Hill Hospital and told the story and Station 12 was notified. The patrol was made a record run for the three miles later.

The police were armed and the crowd was so large that the police were taken up in two lines.

SAYS HE IS "EMPLOYEE." At the police station he stated that he was employed by the Boston Elevated and lived at No. 1,507 Washington street. He was a revolver, but declared that he was only one of the handiis.

FOUGHT TO LAST DITCH. The handiis fought to the last ditch. He made his last stand in a ravine and shot down the oncoming force of 400 policemen in small stumps of alders and pines. These small trees were shot to pieces.

About ten yards from the death spot he was found today. The police found him lying on his back, with his hands behind his head. He was dead.

The general impression is that one of the desperadoes was killed. The police were armed and the crowd was so large that the police were taken up in two lines.

Irregular Employment Bureaux Put Out of Business by License Board.

CHARGES ARE ADMITTED

Two unlicensed employment bureaus were put out of business today by Secretary Paul Ellis of the Licensing Board. At a hearing, ordered the International Colliery Club and the Episcopate Club to discontinue their operations as employment offices.

A death blow was struck at any attempt by organizations of hotel and restaurant cooks to control the employment of their members through the International Colliery Club. Secretary Ellis received a complaint yesterday from Attorney William M. O'Connell, as counsel for Isaac O'Connell, president of the International Colliery Club, that the club was operating an employment office without license. He granted a hearing today to the club and the Episcopate Club, which also claimed to be an employment office.

Who is going to ANSWER This Man?

That Is the Problem of This Election.
Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner.

Mr. Taft, in New York, spoke at Cooper Union, and offered to answer all questions. He answered many, and, as we said at the time, he answered with readiness and apparent sincerity.

One man wrote and sent this question to Mr. Taft:

If a man is out of work and has a family starving, what is he to do?

Mr. Taft read the question, hesitated a moment, threw his hands in the air and exclaimed:

"God knows; I don't." That was an honest reply, but it wasn't an adequate reply.

The question asked of Mr. Taft some months ago will be asked, unfortunately, by thousands and tens of thousands of men to-day.

The number of those that worry about work, with savings dwindling, out of living increasing and very feeble signs of returning prosperity, is great and increasing.

The bread line is long, and the unemployed line is longer. If you should put an advertisement in the paper offering two dollars a day or a dollar and a half a day for skilled mechanics accustomed to receive four or five dollars, you would be overwhelmed with eager applications.

Who's going to answer the question that man put to Taft--the question which is in the mind of the man in this picture, and in the minds of so many others?

What have the gentlemen to say who want to be President of the United States, or Governors or Senators?

What have the national platforms--supposed remedies for all evils--to say on this subject?

It isn't a question that can be dodged. When Mr. Taft throws his hands in the air and says, "God knows; I don't," he is honest, but not satisfying.

When Mr. Bryan, with his hair waving, utters stirring platitudes about nothing in particular, he doesn't answer this man.

Yet those that pretend to knowledge and power in government must realize that this man's question is THE great question of modern government.

The money is in this country, the real wealth is in the country, possibilities of prosperity and employment absolutely unlimited are here.

What is the matter? Whose is the fault?

What is to be actually done to the stock gamblers, public-franchise manipulators, panic-breeders, responsible for the plight of honest men willing to work faithfully, but unable to find work?

We ask what it is to be DONE, not what it is to be TALKED.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote one platform, with a few Wall Street modifications.

Mr. Bryan wrote another platform, with a few other modifications born not a million miles from Wall Street.

But in neither of those platforms is there any answer to the question of this man with the hungry stomach and the hungry family.

Yet his question has got to be answered. THE MAN WON'T WAIT FOREVER.

Ask President Roosevelt, Mr. Krapp said he can melt them all, but it said that he can melt the 150 in trumps, 80 kings, 20 in hearts and 20 in diamonds and 20 in spades. Clubs was the trump, but he had to lose the other 60 melds. Kindly let me know who is right and obliging.

CHARLES KRAPP.

We admit with much regret and some shame that we can't answer our reader's question with authority. We admire placebush, which supplies healthful, harmless relaxation to so many, and we respect every problem which it involves.

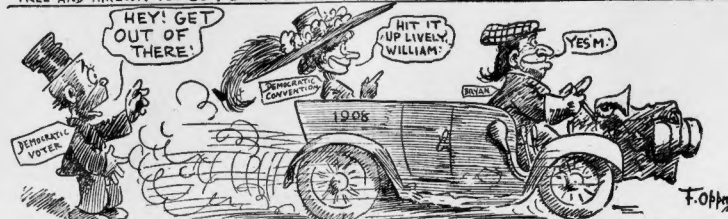

In this important question we should suggest that Mr. Krapp write to Mr. Roosevelt, or to Mr. Cortlyon, who represents him. If Mr. Roosevelt doesn't know, the question might be sent to Mr. Bryan. We have observed the advertisement, a book headed, "Two Hundred Questions on Two Hundred Questions," by W. J. Bryan. It is quite likely the opinion our reader wants will be found among the 200.

"AFTER YOU HAD ENGAGED A CHAUFFEUR--SOME YEARS AGO, TO TAKE YOU FOR A RIDE, AND HE HAD RUN INTO A ROCK AND THROWN YOU OUT--"

"AND YOU HAD AGAIN ENGAGED HIM LATER ON, TO TAKE YOU FOR ANOTHER RIDE, AND HE HAD RUN INTO A TREE AND THROWN YOU OUT SOME MORE--"

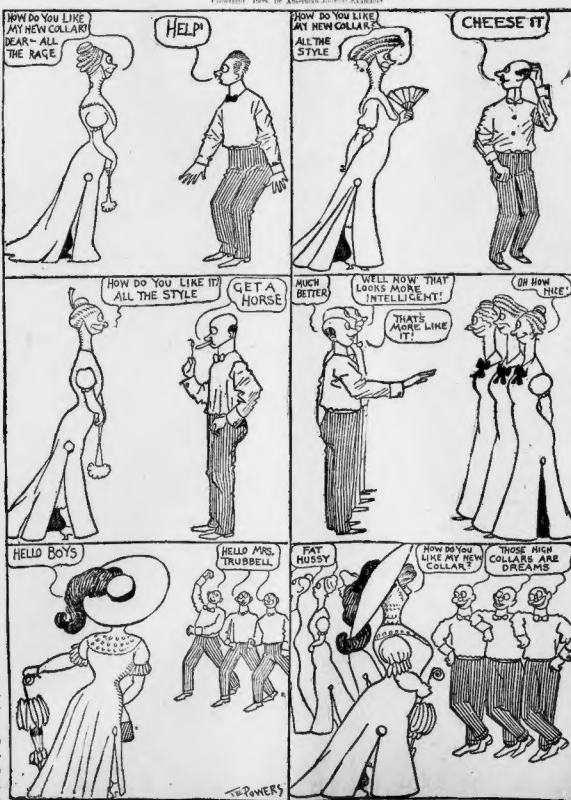

"IF YOU FOUND THAT YOUR WIFE HAD ENGAGED HIM TO DO SOME MORE DRIVING? WOULDN'T IT MAKE YOU BOILING?"

Children Should Be Given Love Rather Than Luxury, and Labor Rather Than Idleness

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Do not deny yourself comforts and pleasures in order to give your children luxuries. There is nothing worth while such a course of action, and almost invariably the result is injurious to the best interests of the children and to society at large.

Give the children your love, your sympathy and your counsel. While these you would study the most important problems. Make yourself acquainted with their temperaments and dispositions, and train yourself to exercise patience in dealing with their weaknesses.

Rest Heritage to Give REMEMBER they may have inherited some of these weaknesses. An example of self-control, kindness and sympathy is the greatest wealth you can bequeath to your children. Give them such opportunities to develop their strength and best characteristics as you can, with out too great sacrifice of your own needs.

If you are able to enjoy them, instead of hoarding your dollars for your children's luxuries which they have not earned, or leaving a fortune to be fought over. The worst characteristic of human nature is capable of frequently developing in children of unselfish parents when the division of property is made--property which the children had no part in earning.

Not long ago a sober, industrious and contented father recovered word that an inheritance had fallen to him, and he at once began to neglect his home and his wife, and finally committed suicide in a moment of despairing rage because the inheritance was giving him all he believed to be his.

Not long ago I met two young women society by such a course. They will be to whom a fortune has been left. I have better fortune if you let them work what sacrifices their dead parents had made for them.

Source of Crime CERTAIN it is that we rarely find the greatest characteristics of the worthiest qualities developed in the children who have been spared all effort and shielded from all responsibilities, and who have been showered the hoards of wealth of self-denying parents, while scarcely a day passes that we do not encounter or hear of selfishness, greed, crime or folly which has resulted directly from inherited wealth.

Early the proceeds of your labor--be charitable, generous, benevolent, while you live, to your children. Give them a home and reasonable pleasures and temptations, but do not sacrifice your life of depriving your children the inheritance of a life of labor.

Yes, I worry myself and them and their society by such a course. They will be to whom a fortune has been left. I have better fortune if you let them work what sacrifices their dead parents had made for them.
